THE FUTURE CITY

Addressing Carbon, Climate & Societal Crises

CTBUH 2021
International Conference

CTBUHconference.com

Conference Synopsis

As the world emerges from the COVID-19 crisis, a new template for the kinds of cities we need is developing, one that requires more flexibility in the way homes and workplaces are designed and more intentionality in how healthy living is supported. Critical decisions grappling with the carbon footprint of the built environment must be made, with their effectiveness measured against the health of the urban realm. Most crucially, a new appreciation has formed for human-scale details as the key ingredient to a thriving and resilient city.

As the opportunity to convene physically becomes more realistic, CTBUH is excited to return to an in-person format for its 2021 Conference, which will focus on the challenges facing our cities through the central theme, The Future City: Addressing Carbon, Climate & Societal Crises. These discussions transcend a single location, as issues of this scope affect regions around the world in contextually-unique ways. Thus, the 2021 Conference will take place across a dozen or more cities over the course of a week, with an expected attendance of several hundred top delegates at each regional gathering, to help steer a local dialogue on this paramount global subject matter. Through presentations, panel discussions, workshops, interviews, building tours, and in-person networking events, regions will engage in a parallel global discourse about the future of the urban realm.

Join us this November for this fantastic event, as we drive urgent solutions for equitable and resilient future cities at the CTBUH 2021 Conference, taking place across numerous cities in the Americas, Australia, China, Europe, the Middle East, and Southeast Asia.

Thought Leadership

We have reached a tipping point, where critical decisions must be made about the future of our cities. We must engage the challenge of the massive global carbon footprint our cities create, while accommodating the growing urban population, and accounting for human health and well-being as we do so. In building tall, we must think beyond “amenities” and “features,” and create holistic, inclusive places where we want, even need to be. Join the CTBUH network of thought leaders to develop and share ideas, and to act decisively.

Strengthen Connections

Conferences open a democratic space where individuals one might never normally encounter in the day-to-day purposefully gather to learn and open themselves to discovery. This creates an incredibly rich environment to make meaningful and fruitful connections, both through networking opportunities and catching up with colleagues. Share ideas, find common ground, and lay the groundwork for future endeavors with decision makers across a wide variety of specializations in the regions important to your business.

Share Your Voice

Attending your regional event—as part of the CTBUH 2021 International Conference—guarantees you a seat at the table with key thought leaders and city-makers interested in tall buildings and urbanism. Position yourself as a critical contributor to the conversation around the pressing issues facing the world today. Professionals from the tall building design, engineering, construction, ownership, and operation disciplines have an unparalleled opportunity at this event to make meaningful connections across the industry in an engaging environment.

Influential Experts

Hear about the latest best practice information, the most cutting-edge trends and technology, and get first-hand insights into the world’s most iconic projects from local changemakers in the AEC industry.

Address Global Issues, Locally

A global solution to a problem like the climate crisis demands local perspectives to be effective. By offering rich programs across key regions in a weeklong sequence of events, the CTBUH 2021 International Conference fosters the cross-pollination of ideas between practitioners who are experts in their local environmental needs. The resulting strategic discussions will help advance the conversation on developing resilient, resource-efficient urban environments well-adapted to their contexts.

Diamond Sponsorship Packages

Diamond sponsors are acknowledged as the highest level supporters of the conference, with each being recognized as the partner and co-host of one specific regional event, as well as promoted as the top sponsors across all the regional events within the series. Enjoying eight complimentary registrations, as well as eight tickets for the social networking reception, each Diamond sponsor might also enhance the conference in other ways, such as through the hosting of an off-site program at one of their buildings on the day before or after the core conference event.

Attendees listen to a presentation during the CTBUH China event "Humanizing High Density: Sustainable Future Cities," sponsored by developer Parkland, which took place at Shenzhen Bay Tower 7, certified the "World's Tallest Concert Hall 2020."
